laws were received from United States marshale, officers of internal revonue, and state officials. Urgent appeals for assis-tance come in from private citizens, and it soon became evident that the security of the people demanded the continued presence of the regular forces. It is a painful fact, which merits serious consideration, ernment, and so long as it exists so long will it be necessary to aid the civil author-ities with an armed force of the nation in putting down this second rabellion and in bringing its leaders to speedy punishment.

Bailway Tracks and Station-Buildings in Citles. From the Railway Times. There is a considerable amount of comlaint made that the railway companies to allowed to run their trains through he thickly-settled parts of cities; that on the continent. these trains are allowed to cross the com-mon reads at grade, and that the railway tracks cross each other at grade. There is trains cross each others at grade. There is no doubt that there are well-grounded objections to each of these practices, and that neither of them ought to be allowed when the public will be as well served and accommodated without. There is a certain smount of possible danger in each case but there is no method of transportation independent of danger. Collisions occurthe ormmon roads and streets, but beto the common roads and streets, but because a carriage gets smashed occasionally, somsible people do not ineist that streets shall not cross each other at grade, or that horses shall not be driven through the crowded streets. They accept such accidents as inevitable, or to be prevented by a greater degree of carriages shall be prevented in the passing through the streets, because such a rule would be fatal to the business in-
